BELOIT ELIMINATED AT STATE TOURNEY

Fond du Lac Completely Swamps State Liners 43 to 22—Eau Claire Wins Only Close Game of Day.

There was but one close and interesting game played at the state tournament yesterday at Appleton, Eau Claire taking a narrow victory over the fast Menasha five, by a score of 24 to 22. This was the last game played last evening.

The defeat administered Beloit by Fond du Lac, was not unexpected. The final count was 43 to 22, Karst starting with 9 field goals. Baraboo, rated as strong contenders, were decisively beaten by West Green Bay by a score of 34 to 17. The other game was between Burlington and Menominee, the latter winning with little effort, 65 to 26. Stupa, for the winners, scoring 12 goals, was the star.

Tonight Fond du Lac and Menominee met in the first battle, after which West Green Bay and Eau Claire will clash, the two winners to meet Saturday night for the state title.

Janesville fans will be interested in knowing the summary of the Beloit-Fond du Lac game, which is as follows:

Beloit—Phillips, 11; Dame, 11; Blanchard, 1; Connell, 1; Carr, 1; Ross, 1.

Fond du Lac—Monroe, 11; Karst, 11.

THOMAS DOPES CUBS FOR FLAG WINNERS; PRAISES BRESNAHAN'S FIGHTING SPIRIT

Chicago, April 2.—Where will the Cubs finish?

"Right up on top,"

The question was put to President Thomas on his recent return from the Tampa camp, and his answer was forthcoming without the least hesitation.

"We ought to have won last year," Thomas added. "This year we are at least 35 per cent stronger. That is a conservative estimate. None of the other clubs has strengthened nearly so much. Why shouldn't we be the pennant?"

Starting at the top, Bresnahan's fighting spirit, his knowledge of the game, and his ability to get every last ounce of work out of his players will make the club much stronger.

We were weak around second base last year. Now we have nothing to worry about as far as the middle infield is concerned.

This boy McCarthy is a find, no question about it. He can hit south-paw pitching just as well as the right-handed sort, and he banges 'em to all parts of the field. He holds as well as anyone could ask for. There is where we have improved most, at second base. Bobby Fisher will fill the requirements at short, so our infield is as good as any team in the league can produce. Saier and Zim need no boosting.

It will be better fortified on the slab than in any season. Adams and Standridge, the two young men we have decided to keep, are right now for big league work.

Adams had enough experience in the big league association to qualify, and Standridge went through the fire on the coast. With these two husky boys to help out our veterans, we will have little reason to worry over our pitching.

"Art" Fleken also is well again, and with him in reserve for substitute purposes we will not lose any strength should either Fisher or McCarthy be disabled. That means a great deal as anyone who followed our team last year will realize.

"Kissler, who will be our reserve outfielder, is bound to hit. He cracks the ball too hard to have them all taken in by the other side.

"Cy" Williams is going like a house afire. With Bresnahan to coach him, "Cy" may develop into one of the star outfielders of the game. That's what Roger thinks, and he knows a ball player when he sees one."

SEEK TO ORGANIZE CARDINAL BALL NINE

Expect to Hold Meeting to Make Plans and Name Manager for a Janesville Baseball Team.

Members of the Janesville Cardinal baseball nine are awaiting favorable weather to start organizing and practicing for the baseball season this year and each time practice has been thwarted by a snowstorm or cold weather. Janesville will have a winning nine this year is certain, since the city will not enter the Bi-State league.

A meeting is expected to be held within the next two weeks of the fans interested in the Janesville team, to formulate plans for the season.

Beloit will have a local league of teams and a series of intercity games will undoubtedly result. Organized ball at Rockford is in danger as the Bi-State league has the grip on the city by the ruling of the National Commission and the Forest City fans are not over anxious in joining the new circuit, wishing to enter the three-league if any. Last year the Cardinals had three Rockford teams on their schedule and it is probable that a like number of games with the Illinois city nines will be arranged this year.

Madison promised to be represented by several strong semi-pro teams for it is doubtful if the Capitol City will have a club in the proposed and shaky Bi-State circuit.

It is not known who will manage the Cardinals this year as Victor E. right, who handled the reins so successfully last year, is not in a position to take charge of the team again this year.

The players are anxious to put the team again on the diamond and to obtain an early start with a full schedule of Sunday games. The business men of the city expressed a willingness to aid in the putting of a winning nine in Janesville at the time agitation was started for organized ball here and a reasonable fund may be solicited to start the nine.

CLABBY AND CHIP TAKE NO CHANCES.

Because they believe a hoodoo hovers over the grave of Stanley Ketchel, former middleweight champion, Jimmy Clabby and George Chip did not visit the bier of the departed pugilist at Grand Rapids. They base their belief on the experiences of other fighters who have visited Ketchel's grave.

Johnny Coulton lost his title two months after visiting Mount Calvary Cemetery. Luther McCarty was killed by Arthur Pelkey a few weeks after his visit, and Chip, himself, was knocked out by Al McCoy barely a month after he paid homage over the remains of Stanley.

MARSHALL IS ELECTED MANAGER FOR AURORA

Clarence Marshall, who sought the position of manager of the Janesville club if this city went into the Bi-State league, has been named as manager of the Aurora club in the new circuit. Marshall was formerly manager of the Rockford and Wausau teams in the defunct Wisconsin-Illinois league.

Four members of the Phillies' year world's champion team, Bobby Byrne got his with Pittsburgh, Dugger and Whitely with the Boston Braves and Manager Pat Moran obtained one when he was with the Cubs.

Manager McCreedy of the Portland club of the Pacific Coast league has prohibited his players from eating more than two meals a day. There's his first example of real training. Most of the ball players save up their appetites all winter for the spring training junket.

Trust Connie Mack to dig up a star hurler every year. This time, it looks as if it would be Wilbur Davis, an eighteen-year-old boy from Virginia, was to prove a phenom for the long, lean and lanky manager. He is a big boy with a terrific fast ball. He held the Cubs to three hits in six innings and the Brooklynns to five hits in seven and two-thirds innings.

With Lajoie on one side of him and Kopf on the other, Jack Barry has decided to remain neutral.

Among the young pitchers Bresnahan will have to release is Short, a youngster of exceptional promise. The Cub leader will try to place him where he will be able to get him in the fall.

Mordcael Brown will be used as a coach for the young pitchers by the Chicago club during the season. Brown is said to have a contract calling for $10,000 a season, which will make him one of the highest paid coaches in the game.

The Yanks will be forced to start the season without the services of Roger Peckinpaugh, the snappy fielding shortstop, as Peck is at present laid up with a badly split finger, and may lose the nail on the index finger of his right hand. Peck has been showing real class down south with the Dozovan. Smiley and the Yankee fans have been banking on the Sixth City boy being one of the real stars of the club. With Peck out, Donovan will be up against it for a veteran to help round out his infield.

A couple of talks were called last season on Pitcher Oldham, now with the Tigers, and as a result he is so afraid he will be guilty of balking that he will wind-up new alloy base runners to take big leads on him and steal at will.

Ralph Marz of the Red Sox is built like a football player and looks on his batting average with fondness and reverence. The indications from his talk are that he thinks more of his batting average than he does of his success in the box. He was on a pretty close to 124 pounds and yet he does not look beefy or heavy. He is a fast fellow on his feet. He is a second baseman of the Iron Man type, he is not only picked and was a double header, but also went in the box for his club the very next day—some feat. That was in the Western League.

WILLARD IN FINE SHAPE PHYSICALLY; CHANCE TO WIN LIES IN HITTING POWER

from the black race and placed upon the brow of a white man. Certainly no white fighter has ever been offered a better opportunity to win back the heavyweight championship of the world than that offered to Willard. Johnson is fat and slow. Willard, never fast, is big and powerful, a well trained athlete.

Johnson's danger lies in his waist line. Insurance companies consider it a bad risk any man whose waist line measures more than his chest. And that was Johnson's condition when he started training to meet Willard. When he started work Jack weighed 255 pounds with the scrap only three weeks off. It required forty-three inches of tape to circle Jack's tummy, and forty-one to get around his chest.

Jack weighed 210 pounds when he fought Jim Flynn. So when he opened his training quarters he was forty-eight pounds over his best fighting weight and with only three weeks to get rid of that surplus flesh. Now it is not an impossibility to take forty-eight pounds off a big man in three weeks' time, but it's a dangerous and anger and capable of going along at a steady clip for round after round.

The champion was tired and worn out after his twenty-round bout with Frank Moran last summer. He has not done anything since to improve his condition and if a fighter of Moran's size and caliber worried Jack it's hard to see why Willard hasn't a pretty good chance to cop over the forty-five-round route.

Johnson's chance is going to come in the early rounds. Willard isn't hard to hit, but he is hard to hurt.

Jack, however, is the owner of a very good wallon and he may be able to master the big fellow in the early rounds—it's a possibility, but not a probability. Certainly if the mill goes fifteen rounds Johnson's chances of emerging the victor will not be so good as those of the challenger.

ILLINOIS BALL NINE OPENS SEASON IN SOUTH.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Starkville, Miss., April 2.—The University of Illinois baseball team opened its 20-game season schedule here today with the Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College. Coach George Huff of Illinois says he has one of the best teams in the history of the university. The Illinoisians will play another game here tomorrow, on their annual Easter trip to the south-land, and on Monday will play Tulane University at New Orleans.

The advance stories regarding the hitting ability of Walter Pipp, Yankee first sacker, secured from the Tigers, do not appear to be unfounded at the present. Pipp has been cutting the ball to all corners of the Savannah ball park, and the Sally league fans are swearing by him. There's no denying the fact that this Pipp can sure hit that pill, but it remains to be seen if he can shove the offerings of the big tent hurlers out of the pastures the way he did with the International league fingers.

Detroit's "big three" will consist of Coveleskie, Dauss and Dubuc, with Cave, Boehler and Cunningham favored as the next three choices.

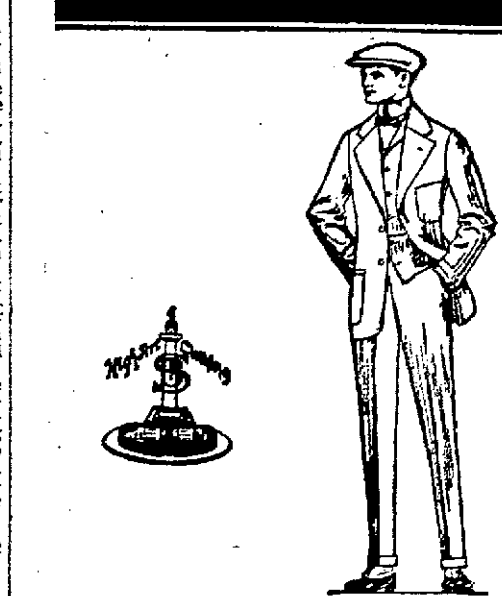

Should the Cards get Benton from Cincinnati as payment for Catcher Wingo, Huggins would have five southpaws, the others being Salee, Robinson, Niehaus and Steele.

weakened process to reduce so rapidly.

Jack will certainly weigh at least 230 pounds for the Willard go and that means he will be fifteen pounds overweight. And chances are he will strip at considerably in excess of 230 pounds.

This extra weight is certain to impair Jack's work. In ten rounds, or even in twenty rounds, this would not prove such a great handicap, but over the forty-five-round route the champion will find his wind and vitality affected.

Willard, on the other hand, will enter the ring in perfect condition. He will weigh even more than Johnson, probably about 245 pounds, but it's all hard flesh. He's inches taller than the champion and is bigger in anything where bigness is an asset and not a liability. Jess is a powerful fighter, slow and ponderous, hard to

LARGE BEQUESTS FOR MERCY HOSPITAL AND ST. JOSEPH CONVENT

WILL OF LATE JOHN J. MCGINNITY OF DENVER FILED FOR PROBATE.

TEN THOUSAND TO EACH

Was a Recent Visitor to Janesville and Died Suddenly on Return Home—Estate Valued at Million.

According to dispatches from Denver, Colorado, the estate of the late John J. McGinnity, filed for probate on Thursday, leaves bequests of ten thousand dollars each to St. Joseph's convent and Mercy Hospital of this city as well as numerous other bequests to relatives, two of which Sister Agatha and Sister Cecile, of this city, and a nephew, Father James McGinnity of Milton Junction, being among those named.

The late John McGinnity left Janesville after a week's visit but a few days ago. He was called here by the death of his brother, the late James McGinnity, who passed away at Hollandale, and spent some days visiting his nieces and nephew before returning to his western home. Two days after his return he died suddenly of heart failure. His nephew, Father James McGinnity of Milton Junction, was summoned hurriedly and went to Denver and is expected to arrive home Saturday.

Mr. McGinnity was the youngest brother of the late Dean E. McGinnity and was born at Hollandale, in this state. He spent some months at St. Patrick's school, in Milwaukee, when, owing to ill health, he was forced to abandon his studies and go west, settling in Denver. He was a member of the firm of McPhee & McGinnity, and according to the report from the probate court his estate is estimated at something over a million.

Aside from the numerous nephews and nieces, one brother, Thomas McGinnity, who still resides at Hollandale, survives him. According to the dispatch the bulk of the estate was left to the firm to which he belonged, but his immediate relatives are to share the two special bequests to St. Joseph's convent and Mercy Hospital in this city.

WOMAN'S PAGE

SIDE TALKS

By RUTH CAMERON

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH.

A woman of my acquaintance has just withdrawn her subscription to a certain charity because a measure which she recommended was not passed by the board of directors.

What a rare thing absolute charity is! By absolute charity, I mean charity without any string to it. It seems to me that Christ's condemnation of the generosity which "lends to them of whom we hope to receive" would apply not only to the giver who expects material return but to him who expects a return in repeatedly expressed gratitude who gets his money's worth in public praise, or who considers that he has bought the right to patronize and criticize his recipient and interfere in his affairs.

Remember, when you buy something with your money you are not giving it away.

Enjoying the Role of Rich Relative.

I once knew a well-to-do woman whose younger sister married unfortunately. The older woman was most generous to her sister; she gave the children all her children's cast-off clothes, she sent them generous gifts of a highly sensible and practical nature on Christmas and birthdays; and in various ways filled the role of rich relative. In return, she exacted the right to criticize her sister's family and continually interfere in their affairs. It was an extravagance for Julia to take piano lessons, Ruth was old enough to give up her dolls, etc., etc. The mother was too broken spirited to object but the children passionately resented the charity with strings to it. They are grown up now and their aunt wonders why they do not like her. And since she cannot exact a return in gratitude she takes it out by painting herself as a victim of base ingratitude to everyone who will listen.

Of course, it is very hard not to let the fact that one gives to another affect the relationship between the two. A man was invited to go abroad by a friend who very much enjoyed his company and who could well afford the gift. He refused. His reason (as he gave it to his wife) was, "I couldn't be polite all that time."

One of the finest examples of generosity without strings that I ever knew was that of a brother who sent his sister to college. He placed the money in the bank subject to her call, and when she offered to show her expense account to him to prove that she was using the money wisely he said, "Keep an expense account for yourself if you want to. It is a good habit. But don't show it to me. The money is your own."

There are an awful lot of people in this world who get their money's worth out of every cent they give and a fine few who give "hoping for nothing in return."

Yet how hard is it not they who really get far more than their money's worth? "For he who loathes his life shall save it."

Animal Jingles

FOR LITTLE FOLK

ADICE GRAY, GAIL

WHAT ARE YOU LIKE?

Just think a bit about yourself.

And see if you're inclined

To be like any animal

That you can call to mind.

Are you a sly and cunning child,

Deceitful in your way?

Whom no one cares to trust? If so,

You're like a Fox, I'd say!

OR

It may be that you are vain,

Often can be found

Agazing in the looking glass

Or proudly strutting round.

Some children are like that, I know,

It's sad but it is true.

And if you're one, I think you're like

A vain Peacock, don't you?

Household Hints

WORTH KNOWING

Split short piece of rubber hose and nail pieces on bottom of step-ladder legs to keep from slipping. Leather chairs often become greasy looking where the arms and head rest on leather. Treat with one ounce of boiled half pint linseed oil and let it stand till nearly cold. Then pour in half pint vinegar, still till it is well mixed and bottle; to use, pour a few drops on a piece of flannel and polish off with soft dusters. This will thoroughly renovate all leathers.

Heart and Home Problems

By ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl eighteen years old. A young man whom I met last summer has been writing to me for some time.

At first when his letters came I always showed them to my mother. He has been down to see me and my mother is fully informed as to his character. Now do you think I ought to show every letter to my mother? There is nothing in any of them I would object to her knowing only I like to have them for myself.

(2) Would it be improper to ask a young man to stay over night at my house? He has always stayed at the hotel before.

DOTTED-D. (1) It is your right to do as you like about showing your mother the letters. But remember she was a girl once, too, and although it may at first startle her to find that her daughter has already entered her little girl's life, if she is a wise mother, she will be the closest, most sympathetic friend possible during this time. I think that if you give your mother your confidence she will not criticize the letters.

(2) It would be better for him to stay at the hotel in the future. Usually the more difficult it is for a man to see a girl the more he enjoys it. If he stayed at your home there would be danger of his thinking you were too anxious to have him come.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man and have dark hair and blue eyes. People think that I am very good looking. I am a Catholic and I am keeping company with a girl whom I love dearly. She is a Protestant. I have never asked her to marry me, but she said that if she kept company with me she would like to be Catholic too some day. She seems to enjoy my company. She thinks of the future. Now what shall I do to keep her company and persuade her that religion won't interfere with her happiness?

FRED M. (1) I wouldn't worry about the future until you are engaged. Then if she objects to becoming a Catholic and you do not care to give up your religion, what chance does she have to go to, and then drop the subject of religion. Unless you are both firmly resolved not to let any creedal beliefs interfere with your happiness, do not marry.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I would be proper to have a masquerade ball for a birthday surprise party for young people at the home of the one to be surprised?

(2) Is it proper for a young man who is engaged to be married to correspond with a young lady whom he has never seen? Or visa versa?

(3) Would it be proper to become engaged through correspondence?

X. Y. Z. (1) If you have the permission of the mother to use her house in that way, (2) No.

(3) In some cases it is all right. Two people who are not acquainted with each other must be pretty hard up for something to do if they correspond without a purpose back of it.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I live in a lonesome place with hardly any neighbors. I have a few friends but they are all away. What would you advise me to do?

(2) I have one friend with whom I have been keeping steady company. I have never broken up, I would not know with him and he got mad although he seemed to think a lot of me. I love him dearly. What can I do to win him back? WILMA.

(1) Stay where you are. You have more friends than you would have in a strange place. Read and you will not be lonesome.

(2) It is evident that the boy only wanted to spoon with you or you would still be friends. Try to forget him. He is not the kind that could ever make you happy.

WRIST WATCH FAD DUE FOR AMERICANS

Fashion is an Outcome of the War And is All The Rage Over in England Where Chappies Wear Them.

(By Margaret Mason.)

"Watch your step," may be a watchword to the soldier, but in the good old U. S. A. But its "watch your wrist" in London. Where you pass the time of day. On every hand. Along the Strand. Piccadilly or Kingway.

London, April 2: (By Mail to New York) These are pulsing times in England. Hence the wrist watch reigns supreme. Every blooming Britisher you meet has one up his sleeve. They're bound to hit the States soon with an awful wallop. Oh, yes, you know, HARRY and Clarence and the rest of the big boys have been wearing them for many months. But over here it is the big brave husky Johns that probably have the biggest brave man to start the fad in New York too.

Like all the other new fashions nowadays the present wristlet watch is a result of the war. Unlike the majority of our fashions it has the distinction of possessing useful, sensible, necessary and, to say the least, timely characteristics as well as looks.

The watches with the luminous dials and hands are especially handy for night wear. Their hands are tipped with phosphorus or radium and they lightly call it over here, and Tommy Atkins lying in the trenches instead of feeling the moments drag by with leaden feet can now watch them tick by with light hands. Every fighting man wears one of these illuminated and handy wristlet time pieces. They are part of his regular kit and built according to army specifications. They are neat, unadorned affairs of silver, gunmetal, nickel or gold to suit your whim or your pocketbook, and they are slipped into the narrow unobtrusive wrist strap of leather which fastens as securely and inconspicuously as possible. The straps of mouse gray undressed leather are perhaps the most popular as well as best-looking and you can be sure of a proud possessor of one of these timely concubines for as little as one pound or five dollars of regular money.

Our American correspondents have already succumbed to the alluring charms of the wristlet watch and are bound to import them to our masculine midst and forearms.

Then the American man fighting his battles in the marts of time, being in the trenches of Wall St., needs a time limit on his pulse. He ought to find one a great help also in midnight tango encounters, cross dance hall caters and hesitation sorters. The boy vivat, out to revel in a wrist watch. Think of the nice cozy sociable feeling it would give him to realize that even his lit watch is all lit up.

Oh! the possibilities of the wrist watch in the U. S. A. are unlimited. Watch out for the American invasion of the wrist. Hands across the sea are all due to the wristlet watch, a bird of a wrist-watch on the hand is worth two in the pocket. If you just once get the watch to show on your wrist.

As for the ladies, they are showing wristlet, watch effects that are most artistic. The most fascinating are the thin, slim, dainty, studded affairs, either square or hexagonal in shape, and worn on narrow wristbands of black moire ribbon. These are much more effective than the gold and silver settings although some lovely things are shown in the jewelry stores. Especially exquisite in this style are the enamelled of Greys, gobeins, and mauve shades of enamel. The enamel in enamel and the black enamel in combinations with white or with brilliant is very smart for the ribbon set watches.

The new oval shaped wrist watches that we had last season in America are being used a great deal over here now but the model that is novelty of the same time second to none is the tiny inch or inch and a half square platinum watch on the wrist band of black moire.

Infinitesimal watches set in finger rings are another recent offering, but as they are neither very practical or particularly beautiful they will undoubtedly soon fold their tiny hands and turn their two wee open faces to the wall of fashionable oblivion. There is a limit to time reduction and Mildred looking for a good time doesn't want her minutes too minute.

Belgians appreciate CONDENSED MILK MORE THAN OTHER FOODSTUFFS.

(By Associated Press.) London, April 1: The Commission for Relief in Belgium has sent over five thousand tons of condensed milk into Belgium and no form of foodstuff is so popular in the Belgian people has brought forth such warm expressions of gratitude as the supplies for the baby cantons.

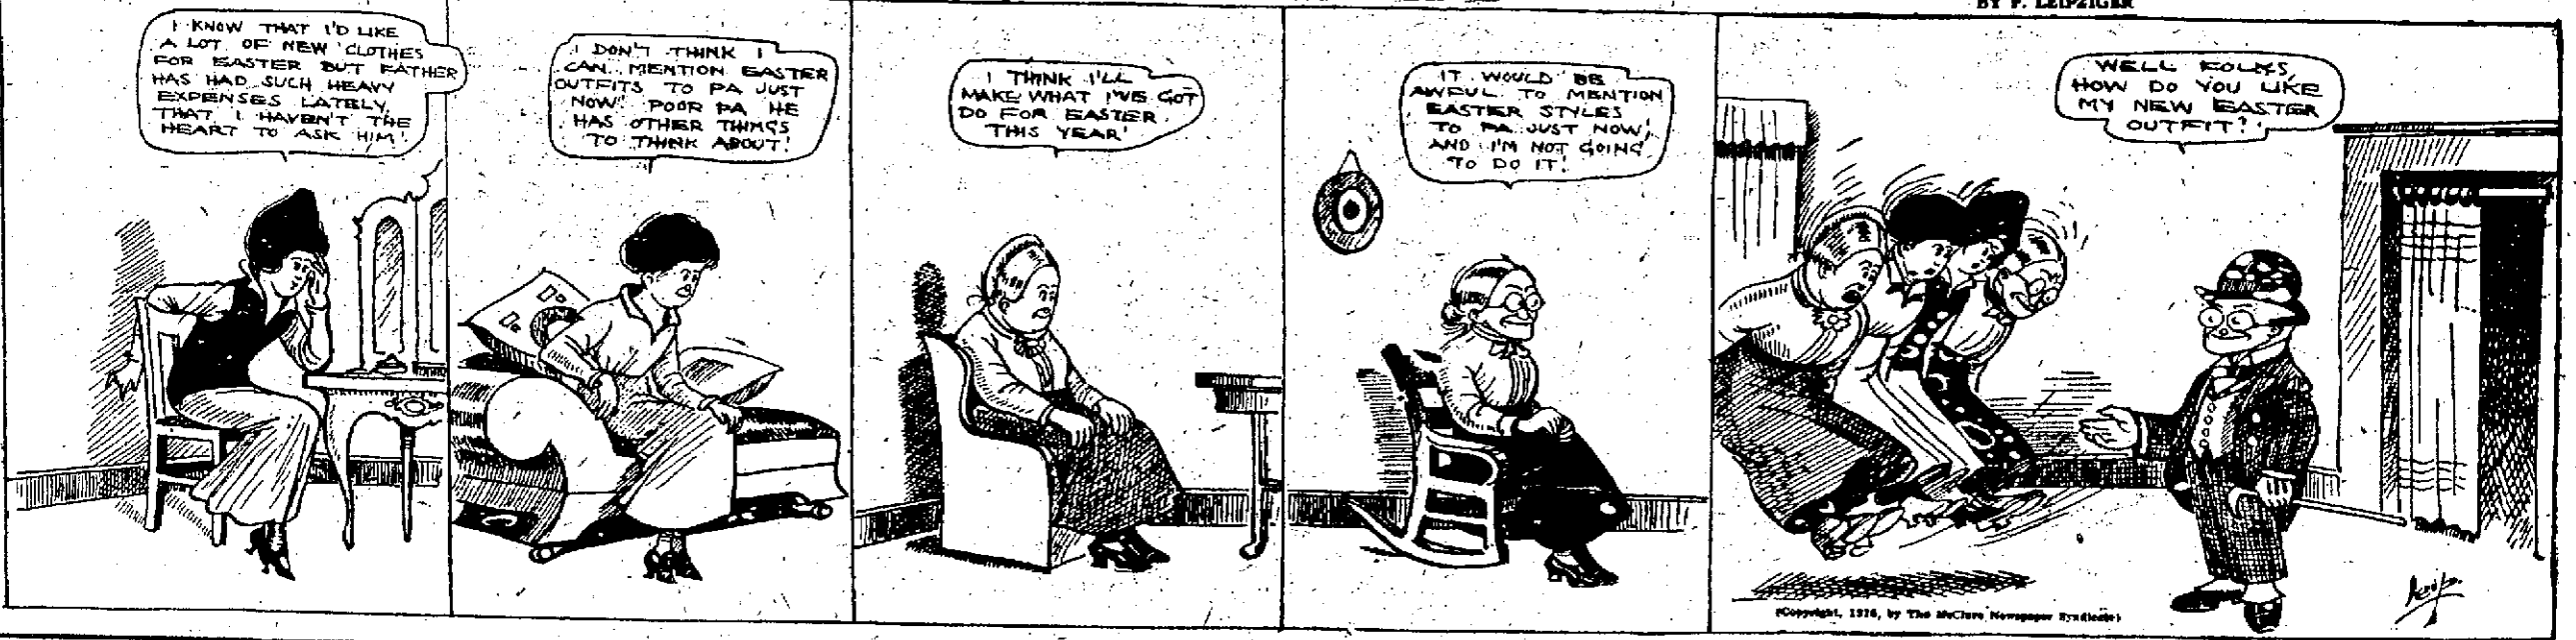

The latest expression of this feeling is the form of a letter from Cardinal Mercier to Herbert Hoover as follows: "Dear Monsieur le President. The Commission which you conduct with as much devotion as discretion has just forwarded me for the needy the considerable supply of 3,210 cases of condensed milk. Your consignment arrived in the heart of winter at a time when acute hunger makes itself felt more acutely than ever. Kindly accept, and transmit to your fellow workers as well as all those who assist us through your intermediary, the expression of my deep gratitude, and believe, dear Monsieur le President, in the assurance of my great esteem."

WITH THE FRENCH WOUNDED

The Woman's Sacrifice

Paris, April 2nd, 8:30 P. M. Away from the battlefield, one sees a woman stripped of its glamor. We see the heroic work of nurses who are on duty day and night. There is devotion, self-sacrifice, suffering, patriotism—qualities which only a great war and its terrible consequences can inspire to the highest development. The women everywhere are helping and everywhere one sees self-sacrifice and devotion to country.

The women of the United States do not know how fortunate they are. Here there are plenty of women who suffer in silence, whose strength is out of proportion to their ambition. Their hands are tied by womanly duties, weak back, accompanied by pain here or there, extreme nervousness, sleeplessness, maybe fainting spells or spasms, are all signals of distress for women. She may be growing from girlhood into womanhood, passing from womanhood to motherhood, and later suffering from that change which leaves so many wrecks of women. At any or all of these periods of a woman's life she should take a look at the nerve, prescribed for just such cases by a physician of vast experience in the diseases of women. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has successfully treated more cases the past fifty years than any other known remedy. When you feel dull, headachy, backache, dizzy, or perhaps hot flashes, there is nothing you can accomplish, nothing you can enjoy. You can find permanent relief in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is sold by medicine dealers, or trial box by mail from Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., on receipt of 50 cents, or dollar for large box.—Advertisement.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles. If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubled with indigestion, food you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you like. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, Ohio.

A Strength, Flesh and Body Builder For Spring

Run Down, Underweight People Put on Ten to Twenty Pounds of Healthy Flesh.

Most people show a tendency to lose weight in winter. The fat making material in the foods they eat, which at other seasons keeps flesh and weight at normal is partially diverted to cold weather and instead is used to furnish heat for the body. Then most of us acquire coughs, colds or the gripe which tear down flesh, lower vitality, cause a considerable loss in weight and leave us in a rundown condition in the spring.

Any material loss of weight should be regarded with alarm and prompt measures taken to regain the lost flesh. A splendid body-builder and flesh producer is found in a preparation known as Sargol which can be found at druggists everywhere and which seldom fails to give the user a weight increase of from ten to twenty pounds within a few weeks. Sargol does not of itself make flesh. It is a small tablet which readily dissolves in the stomach and, mixing with the fat, sugars and starches of the food you eat, prepares these flesh-making materials into a form where the blood can easily absorb and distribute them throughout the body. It is really amazing how quickly and easily lost flesh and weight return when Sargol is used with your meals. With returning normal weight comes too a corresponding return of health, spirits, ambition and vitality and you soon feel your old self again. Leading druggists everywhere sell and recommend Sargol and every package contains a guarantee of weight increase or money back. Caution:—While Sargol is a wide-spread remedy for increasing weight, its action in increasing weight is so practically certain that its use is not recommended to those who are not willing to put on ten or more pounds of flesh. BLACK IS WHITE
BY GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON
ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

COPYRIGHT, 1914, BY DODD, READ AND COMPANY.

"To my own sweetheart!" he cried out. He sprang forward and struck the photograph on Frederic's hand. It fell to the floor at his feet. Before the young man could recover from his surprise, Brood's foot was upon the bit of cardboard. "Don't raise your hand to me! Don't you dare to strike me! Now I shall tell you who that sweetheart was!"

Half an hour later James Brood descended the stairs alone. He went straight to the library where he knew that he could find Yvonne. Ranjab, standing in the hall, peered into his white, drawn face as he passed, and started forward as if to speak to him. But Brood did not see him. He did not lift his gaze from the floor. The Hindu went swiftly up the stairs, a deep dread in his soul.

The shades were down. Brood stopped inside the door and looked dully about the library. He was on the point of retiring when Yvonne spoke to him out of the shadowy corner beyond the fireplace. "Close the door," she said huskily. Then she emerged slowly, almost like a specter, from the dark background formed by the huge mahogany bookcases that lined the walls, from floor to ceiling. "You were a long time up there," she went on.

"Why is it so dark in here, Yvonne?" he asked listlessly.

"So that it would not be possible for me to see the shame in your eyes, James."

He leaned heavily against the long table. She came up and stood across the table from him, and he felt that her eyes were searching his very soul.

"I have hurt him beyond all chance for recovery," he said hoarsely.

"Oh, you coward!" she cried, leaning over the table, her eyes blazing. "I can understand it in you. You have no soul of your own. What have you done to your son, James Brood?"

He drew back as if from the impact of a blow. "Coward? If I have crushed his soul, it was done in time, Yvonne, to deprive you of the glory of doing it."

"What did he say to you about me?"

"You have had your fears for nothing. He did not put you in jeopardy," he said scornfully.

"I know. He is not a coward," she said calmly.

"In your heart you are reviling me. You judge me as one guilty soul judges another. Suppose that I were to confess to you that I left him there with all the hope, all the life blasted out of his eyes—with a wound in his heart that will never stop bleeding—that I left him because I was sorry for what I had done and could not stand by and look upon the wreck I had created. Suppose—"

"I am still thinking of you as a coward. What is it to me that you are sorry now? What have you done to that wretched, unhappy boy?"

"He will tell you soon enough. Then you will despise me even more than I do myself. God! He—he looked at me with his mother's eyes when I kept on striking blows at his very soul." Her eyes—eyes that were always pleading with me! But, curse them—always scoffing at me! For a moment I faltered. There was a wave of love—yes, love, not pity, for him—as I saw him go down before the words I hurled at him. It was as if I had hurt the only thing in all the world that I loved. Then it passed. He was not meant for me to love. He was born for me to despise. He was born to torture me as I have tortured him.

"You poor fool!" she cried, her eyes glittering.

"Sometimes I have doubted my own reason," he went on as if he had not heard her scathing remark. "Sometimes I have felt a queer gripping of the heart when I was harshest toward him. Sometimes his eyes—her eyes—have melted the steel that was driven into my heart; long ago, his voice and the touch of his hand gently have checked my bitterest thoughts. Are you listening?"

"Yes."

"You ask what I have done to him. It is nothing in comparison to what he would have done to me. It isn't necessary to explain. You know the thing he has had in his heart to do. I have known it from the beginning. It is the treacherous heart of his mother that propels that boy's blood along its craven way. She was an evil thing—as evil as God ever put life into."

"Go on."

"I loved her as no woman ever was loved before—or since. I thought she loved me—God, I believe she did. He—Frederic had her portrait up there to flash in my face. She was beautiful—she was as lovely as— But no more! I was not the man. She loved another. Her lover was that boy's father."

Dead silence reigned in the room, save for the heavy breathing of the man. Yvonne was as still as death itself. Her hands were clenched against her breast.

"That was years ago," resumed the man, hoarsely.

"You—you told him this?" she cried, aghast.

"He said she must have loathed me as no man was ever loathed before. Then I told him."

"You told him because you knew she did not loathe you! And you loved Matilde—God pity your poor soul! For no more than I have done you drove her out of your house. You accuse me in your heart when you vent your rage on that poor boy. Oh, I know! You suspect me! And you suspected the other one. Before God, I swear to you that you have more cause to suspect me than Matilde. She was not untrue to you. She could not have loved anyone else but you. I know—God help me, I know! Don't come near me! Not now! I tell you that Frederic is your son. I tell you that Matilde loved no one but you. You drove her out. You drove Frederic out. And you will drive me out."

She stood over him like an accusing angel, her arms extended. He shrank back, glaring.

"Why do you say these things to me? You cannot know—you have no right to say—"

"I am sorry for you, James Brood," she murmured, suddenly relaxing. Her body swayed against the table, and then she sank limply into the chair alongside. "You will never forget that you struck a man who was asleep, absolutely asleep. That's why I am sorry for you."

"Asleep!" he murmured, putting his hand to his eyes. "Yes, yes—he was asleep! Yvonne, I—I have never been so near to loving him as I am now. I—I—"

"I am going up to him. Don't try to stop me. But first let me ask you a question. What did Frederic say when you told him his mother was—"

was what you claim?"

Brood lowered his head. "He said that I was a cowardly liar."

"And it was then that you began to feel that you loved him. Ah, I see. You are a great, strong man—a wonderful man in spite of all this. You have a heart—a heart that still needs breaking before you can ever hope to be happy."

He gasped. "As if my heart hasn't already been broken," he groaned.

"Your head has been hurt, that's all. There is a vast difference. Are you going out?"

He looked at her in dull amazement. Slowly he began to pull himself together. "Yes. I think you should go to him. I—I gave him an hour to—"

"To get out?"

"Yes. He must go, you see. See him, if you will. I shall not oppose you. Find out what he expects to do."

She passed swiftly by him as he started toward the door. In the hall, which was bright with the sunlight from the upper windows, she turned to face him. To his astonishment, her cheeks were aglow and her eyes bright with eagerness. She seemed almost radiant.

"Yes; it needs breaking, James," she said, and went up the stairs, leaving him staring there dumfounded. Near the top she began to hum a blithe tune. It came down to him distinctly—the weird little air that had haunted him for years—Feverelli's!

CHAPTER XVII.

Foul Weather.

To Brood's surprise, she came half-way down the steps again, and, leaning over the railing, spoke to him with a voice full of irony.

"Will you be good enough to call off your dog, James?"

"What do you mean?" He had started to put on his light overcoat.

"I think you know," she said, briefly. "Do you consider me so mean, so infamous as—"

"Nevertheless, I feel happier when I know he is out of the house. Call off your dog, James."

He smothered an execration and then called out harshly to Jones. "Ask Ranjab to attend me here, Jones. He is to go out with me," he said to the butler a moment later. Yvonne was still leaning over the banister, a scornful smile on her lips.

"I shall wait until you are gone. I intend to see Frederic alone," he said, with marked emphasis on the final word.

"As you like," said he, coldly.

She crossed the upper hall and disappeared from view down the corridor leading to her own room. Her lips were set with decision; a wild, reckless light filled her eyes, and the smile of scorn had given way to one of exaltation. Her breath came fast and tremulously through quivering nostrils as she closed her door and hurried across to the little vine-covered balcony.

"The time has come—the time has come, thank God," she was saying to herself, over and over again.

She turned her attention to the window across the court and two floors above her—the heavily curtained window in Brood's "retreat." There was no sign of life there, so she hurried to the front of the house to wait for the departure of James Brood and his man. The two were going down the front steps. At the bottom Brood spoke to Ranjab and the latter, as imperturbable as a rock, bowed low and moved off in an opposite direction to that taken by his master. She watched until both were out of sight. Then she rapidly mounted the stairs to the top floor.

Frederic was lying on the couch near the jade-room door. She was able to distinguish his long, dark figure after peering intently about the shadowy interior in what seemed at first to be a vain search for him. She shrank back, her eyes fixed in horror upon the prostrate shadow. Suddenly he stirred and then half raised himself on one elbow to stare at the figure in the doorway.

2 Drops of "GETS-IT,"
Out Comes the Corn!

It's the World's Wonder; Never Fails.

You'll make go-go eyes at your feet after you use "GETS-IT," and you'll find the places where those pesky corns come to be just as smooth as your cheek. There's no corn or callus among the millions of feet in the world that "GETS-IT" will not remove—there's no escape. "GETS-IT" is the new way, the simple, common-sense, sure way. It does away with greasy ointments, salves, pads, cotton rings, barbaless knives, scissors, razors, files, and the limping and painful pigeon-toe walk of so many corn-plagued people. All you do is put 2 drops of "GETS-IT" on the corn, rub it in—and good bye. Nothing else in the world like "GETS-IT." Millions are using it. There's no pain, no trouble, no changing shoes because of corns.

"GETS-IT" is sold by druggists everywhere. 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

"How Wide Is a 'GETS-IT' Smile? Well, a Good Deal Over 2 Feet!"

"Is it you?" he whispered, hoarsely, and dropped back with a great sigh on his lips.

Her heart leaped. The blood rushed back to her face. Quickly closing the door, she advanced into the room, her tread as swift and as soft as a cat's.

"He has gone out. We are quite alone," she said, stopping to lean against the table, suddenly faint with excitement.

He laughed, a bitter, mirthless, snarling laugh.

"Get up Frederic. Be a man! I know what has happened. Get up! I want to talk it over with you. We must plan. We must decide now—at once—before he returns." The words broke from her lips with sharp, staccato-like emphasis.

He came to a sitting posture slowly, all the while staring at her with a dull wonder in his heavy eyes.

"Pull yourself together," she cried, hurriedly. "We cannot talk here. I am afraid in this room. It has ears. I know. That awful Hindu is always here, even though he may seem to be elsewhere. We will go down to my boudoir."

Dinner Stories

It was the same old story. Mrs. Newell's cake was simply impossible to eat, and hubby told her so. "Please remember that you did not wed a cook," said Mrs. N. haughtily. That night, when they had both retired for the night, a distinct, suspicious rattling of furniture was heard.

TRY THIS IF YOU HAVE DANDRUFF

Are Bothered With Falling Hair or Itching Scalp.

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to keep your hair looking rich, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair, and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everybody notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

Take a glass of Salts to flush Kidneys if Bladder bothers you.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys; they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly back-ache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

'SHOW ME' STATE HAS FREAK FARM MEASURE

FARM HANDS CAN WORK BUT EIGHT HOURS A DAY.

MANY REQUIREMENTS

Fields Must be Shaded For Their Comfort and Borne Heated in Winter.—One Price For Commodities.

Every winter the legislature of some state has up for consideration some absolutely absurd measure. This year Missouri carries off the honors and a "Show Me" state legislator who believes there is no reason why the benefit of government by commission should not be extended to the farmer as well as to the manufacturer and carrier has prepared a draft of a "farming" bill providing for the regulation of prices, service requirements, and a sort of "full crew" law, with several "welfare" clauses for the hired man. The measure comes under the heading "house bill No. 1,065, forty-eighth general assembly," introduced by "Mr. Chaney," read first time March 2, 1915, and 500 copies ordered printed. Top of the art are circulating throughout the country and create much amusement. Here is the bill:

"Only one price for a given commodity shall be lawful. A farmer desiring to change the price shall file a schedule thereof with the commission hereby created, which shall go into effect thirty days thereafter, unless suspended by the commission at the instance of any consumer.

"No prices shall be increased, however, except upon due proof, the burden whereof shall be upon the farmer, that existing prices are confiscatory of his goods and gear. In its discretion the commission may refuse to permit any such increase until a valuation by its engineers and accountants shall have been taken. In such valuation the farmer shall have no credit for past profits invested in new fields or improved structures, but shall be allowed only original cost plus borrowed money invested.

"Commodities as used herein, includes all grains, vegetables, livestock, dairy articles, excepting sand, gravel and manure.

"Every hired man shall work eight hours only a day, including the Sabbath, and shall not receive more than one wage for any period of not less than eighteen hours absolute rest and quiet. He shall not work on the Lord's day nor on legal holidays nor on Jack Love's birthday.

"Every farmer shall hire one more hired man than his work requires.

"The only permissible exceptions to the foregoing regulations shall be periods of stress resulting from earthquakes, hail, the comet, or European invasion.

"All wagons and all poles and double trees shall be provided with couplers, coupling by impact, so that the hired man need not go between the wheels of the wagon and the heels of the horses.

"All wagons shall be supplied with suitable brakes, stirrups and platforms of standard dimensions to be fixed by the commission.

"All bulks, when moving on the highway or in unimproved areas shall be equipped with a bell of not less than 50 pounds weight, a steam whistle, and an electric headlight of at least 1,000 candle power.

"Sheds shall be built over all fields where hired men have to work in summer.

"All field engines and machinery shall be fenced in, all belting shall be enclosed in metal housings and all grinders, churning, rollers, bull's horns, and other moving parts shall be strongly enclosed in sheaths for the protection of the hired men.

"All barns, sheds, and other out-buildings shall in cold weather be adequately heated and at all times shall be well lighted and noticed.

"If a calf is delayed in arriving or is born dead, the farmer shall instantly provide another cow whose calf shall be born that day.

"The commission's inspectors shall weekly inspect all gasoline automobiles. If a cylinder is missing the farmer must find it before he runs on the road again.

"The right to mortgage real estate is a franchise reserved to the state. No farmer shall make any mortgage nor incur any indebtedness extending over a period of more than one month without the written approval of the commission, obtained upon petition and hearing and upon paying the state treasurer ten cents for each $100 of such indebtedness. Indebtedness incurred without such consent shall be void.

"To enforce this act a commission of five persons shall be elected by the governor, with a view to placating as many shades of political opinion as possible. No commission shall, however, be deemed disqualified by lack of previous political or other experience."

"All wagons shall be supplied with suitable brakes, stirrups and platforms of standard dimensions to be fixed by the commission.

"All bulks, when moving on the highway or in unimproved areas shall be equipped with a bell of not less than 50 pounds weight, a steam whistle, and an electric headlight of at least 1,000 candle power.

"Sheds shall be built over all fields where hired men have to work in summer.

"All field engines and machinery shall be fenced in, all belting shall be enclosed in metal housings and all grinders, churning, rollers, bull's horns, and other moving parts shall be strongly enclosed in sheaths for the protection of the hired men.

"All barns, sheds, and other out-buildings shall in cold weather be adequately heated and at all times shall be well lighted and noticed.

"If a calf is delayed in arriving or is born dead, the farmer shall instantly provide another cow whose calf shall be born that day.

"The commission's inspectors shall weekly inspect all gasoline automobiles. If a cylinder is missing the farmer must find it before he runs on the road again.

"The right to mortgage real estate is a franchise reserved to the state. No farmer shall make any mortgage nor incur any indebtedness extending over a period of more than one month without the written approval of the commission, obtained upon petition and hearing and upon paying the state treasurer ten cents for each $100 of such indebtedness. Indebtedness incurred without such consent shall be void.

"To enforce this act a commission of five persons shall be elected by the governor, with a view to placating as many shades of political opinion as possible. No commission shall, however, be deemed disqualified by lack of previous political or other experience."

Every winter the legislature of some state has up for consideration some absolutely absurd measure. This year Missouri carries off the honors and a "Show Me" state legislator who believes there is no reason why the benefit of government by commission should not be extended to the farmer as well as to the manufacturer and carrier has prepared a draft of a "farming" bill providing for the regulation of prices, service requirements, and a sort of "full crew" law, with several "welfare" clauses for the hired man. The measure comes under the heading "house bill No. 1,065, forty-eighth general assembly," introduced by "Mr. Chaney," read first time March 2, 1915, and 500 copies ordered printed. Top of the art are circulating throughout the country and create much amusement. Here is the bill:

"Only one price for a given commodity shall be lawful. A farmer desiring to change the price shall file a schedule thereof with the commission hereby created, which shall go into effect thirty days thereafter, unless suspended by the commission at the instance of any consumer.

"No prices shall be increased, however, except upon due proof, the burden whereof shall be upon the farmer, that existing prices are confiscatory of his goods and gear. In its discretion the commission may refuse to permit any such increase until a valuation by its engineers and accountants shall have been taken. In such valuation the farmer shall have no credit for past profits invested in new fields or improved structures, but shall be allowed only original cost plus borrowed money invested.

"Commodities as used herein, includes all grains, vegetables, livestock, dairy articles, excepting sand, gravel and manure.

"Every hired man shall work eight hours only a day, including the Sabbath, and shall not receive more than one wage for any period of not less than eighteen hours absolute rest and quiet. He shall not work on the Lord's day nor on legal holidays nor on Jack Love's birthday.

"Every farmer shall hire one more hired man than his work requires.

"The only permissible exceptions to the foregoing regulations shall be periods of stress resulting from earthquakes, hail, the comet, or European invasion.

"All wagons and all poles and double trees shall be provided with couplers, coupling by impact, so that the hired man need not go between the wheels of the wagon and the heels of the horses.

"All wagons shall be supplied with suitable brakes, stirrups and platforms of standard dimensions to be fixed by the commission.

"All bulks, when moving on the highway or in unimproved areas shall be equipped with a bell of not less than 50 pounds weight, a steam whistle, and an electric headlight of at least 1,000 candle power.

"Sheds shall be built over all fields where hired men have to work in summer.

HUNDREDS ENJOYED CONCERTS BY BLIND

Superintendent Hooper's Students
Win Praise for Fine Program
Given at Madison.

Thirty pupils from the Wisconsin School for the Blind, together with teachers and their parents, returned last evening from Madison, where they gave a concert and demonstration of the work of the school before the state legislature and others interested.

The program proved to be one of the most successful and interesting ever given in Madison, and the assembly chamber was crowded to its limit with hundreds of people standing in the parlors and corridors, while hundreds of others were not able even to gain standing room. The members of the legislature were especially enthralled by the music, and Superintendent Hooper and his corps received many compliments concerning the pupils and their work. In addition to the program, Superintendent Hooper gave a short talk explaining the work and plans of the school, especially emphasizing the necessity of educating the seeing people concerning the needs of the blind. It was a revelation to most of those present to realize that the blind were not desirous of or in need of special sympathy and pity. What they want is a chance to do the things in the world which they are able to do and to live independent, respectful lives, doing their work along with other men and women. Blind are human and wish to be able to live as other people do in the world.

Both the State Journal and the Madison Democrat extended complimentary notices of the performance, and the assembly gave up the use of the parlors for the entire day for the use of the pupils in giving a demonstration of the school work. Hooper was especially interested in the sewing, cooking, reading, writing, basket-making, typewriting and the demonstration of the use of the dictaphone. Several of the photographers who were at the capitol were more than surprised at the accuracy and speed of the blind girls who operated the typewriters.

The program was given as published in the Gazette.

STORKS APPEAR EARLY
IN THEIR OLD NESTS
IN CITY OF BERLIN.

Berlin, April 2.—Earlier than ever before in the history of Berlin, storks have made their appearance here and have sought out their customary nests. The birds all appear very tired and hungry. It is believed that they have been frightened away from their winter haunts by cannonading and gunfire.

LA PRAIRIE

La Prairie, April 1.—Mrs. Walter Dalton of Clinton visited her sister, Mrs. E. S. Smith Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Goodrich and family visited friends at Allen's Grove Sunday.

Belice and Robert Erler of Janesville are spending the week with their sister, Mrs. Wilbur Sweet.

Mr. and Mrs. Peck and two daughters of Elkhorn visited at Frank Goodrich's Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Conway returned home Wednesday from their wedding trip, which was spent with relatives in Rockford.

Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Overton and son Orrin were Madison visitors Saturday.

CHILD GETS SICK
CROSS, FEVERISH
IF CONSTIPATED

"CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS" CAN'T HARM TENDER STOMACH OR BOWELS.

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, and your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold, or has sore throat or any other child's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough inside cleansing is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for 25-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Orfordville News

Orfordville, April 1.—Mrs. Tomlin of Evansville was in the village on Wednesday, the guest of her son, A. E. Tomlin.

Mrs. Oscar Millard of Lima Center visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Mow on Wednesday, returning home in the afternoon.

Rev. G. N. Foster of Oregon accompanied the remains of the late Dr. F. Fairman from Broadhead to the local cemetery on Wednesday and spent a short time in the village renewing old acquaintances.

Nomination papers were circulated by the friends of O. A. Peterson on Wednesday thus making him a candidate on the ticket for supervisor. G. Clemetson received the nomination at the caucus. Aside from this, there is no likelihood of there being but the one ticket.

E. C. Taylor returned from Oconomowoc on Wednesday. He had been called to the city with the management of the Babst farm regarding the purchase of food stock.

Foreman Schultz has been burning the right-of-way within the village limits for the past day or two. The railroad company are taking precautions early to prevent fires.

The published report of the village clerk shows a balance of nearly two thousand dollars in the treasury at the close of the year, with all indebtedness paid.

The lodge of Rebekahs gave a surprise party on J. E. Egan on Thursday evening. They went with well filled baskets, from which they served a sumptuous luncheon, and the evening was spent in pleasant intercourse and at the Lutheran church on Sunday.

At the Lutheran church on Sunday evening an Easter song service will be given consisting of solos, anthems, duets and choruses; the program will doubtless be one of unusual merit.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Iman transacted business in the village on Thursday afternoon.

B. L. Taylor met with an accident on Wednesday while working around his gasoline engine. While no bones were broken he will be confined to his bed for a time.

MOTION FOR A NEW TRIAL
FILED IN BRUHN VS. MEYERS

Attorney T. N. Nolan for the plaintiff, Miss Betty Bruhn of Edgerton, has filed a motion for a new trial in the case of Miss Bruhn against Dr. F. Meyer, on the charge of assault and battery. Jury in the circuit court rendered a verdict in favor of Meyer in March.

CENTER

Center, March 31.—The local teachers and pupils are enjoying a week's vacation from school duties.

Mr. and Mrs. James Roberts were visitors at the home of their son John in Madison, the latter part of last week.

Little Margaret Natz is on the sick list at this writing; also Mrs. Otto Long has been having a gripe.

Mrs. Charlotte Fisher and son Edwin of Janesville are visitors at the home of the former's daughter this week.

About sixty relatives and neighbors gathered at the home of Mrs. March 30, to remind them of their fifth wedding anniversary. Shortly after noon a bounteous dinner was served and the afternoon was spent in social chat and listening to musical selections from the graphophone.

Poor Yet Making Rich

By REV. L. W. CONNELL,
Assistant to the Dean, Moody Bible Institute,
Chicago

TEXT—As poor, yet making many rich.
—II Cor. 8:10.

On Christmasday a certain Christian worker was troubled because he could not make many gifts. His poverty distressed him, until then began thrumming in his brain the words of the text: "As poor, yet making many rich." He forgot his poverty and began to understand the joy of the apostle, who had learned "to suffer need."

1. Paul enriched the world by his life. All his preaching was enforced by his testimony. "I live, yet not I but Christ liveth in me," Spurgeon comments on the wondrous power of George Muller's preaching. It was quite simple, but the hearer felt that here was a man dealing with realities of which he knew. The bishop of Durham tells of a university preacher at empty benches, yet when the students were sick or dying they would send for this man; his life was fragrant.

2. His prayers were another source of Paul's riches for the world. We may say without straining language that he prayed "without ceasing," and we may follow him here. Says John R. Mott: "It is possible for the most obscure person in a church with a heart right toward God, to exercise as much power for the evangelization of the world as it is for those who stand in the most prominent positions. Therefore no one is excusable if he commits the great sin of omitting to pray." We can make missionaries and native churches rich, aye, and our own church and community, too, no matter how poor we may be. Dr. G. Campbell Morgan tells of a preacher who would go from pew to pew in his church on weekdays, and pray for those who sat there on Sunday; Dr. Morgan ventures the opinion that this is perhaps the highest service that even a great preacher could do for his flock.

3. His writings are one of Paul's gifts to the world. What a heritage are his epistles! We know how "Pilgrim's Progress" was written by a tinker in jail. If we object that this tinker had unusual genius, it may be replied that many ordinary persons, with love for Christ in their souls, have done valiant service with the pen. It was a letter from a friend, written with a faltering hand, that led Henry Clay Trumbull to Christ; the world knows of his splendid service as preacher, explorer, expositor, Sunday school worker and editor. We heard of a woman who watched the daily record of deaths in the papers and sent to every bereaved household a letter or booklet containing a word for the Master: "Who does not covet her reward and who could not do likewise?"

4. His preaching was another of Paul's blessings for men. He could say to multitudes of converts, as he said to the Thessalonians, "What is our hope, or joy, or crown of rejoicing? Are not even ye in the presence of our Lord Jesus Christ at his coming?" Preachers, it has been said, are often like camels which are laden with spices and jewels, but they themselves feed on thistles. But though poor, how have they made many rich! We knew of one who had not realized all the ambitions of his early ministry; his churches had been obscure and his salary small, and it grieved him that his wife had dressed shabbily. Yet here, he had led a poor country lad to Christ; there, he had helped a boy get off to college; there, he had loaned his books to a hungry soul. And at his funeral his body was borne of bishops and lawyers and magnates who came to shed sincere tears over the man who had done them the greatest service ever performed for them—who had led them to Christ.

Spiritual treasure has been so showered upon us that we enrich men when we are unaware. We listened recently to the story of a young man who, after serving Satan well, had come to Christ. He was a sailor on an English ship, which was lying in a harbor off the coast of Cornwall. One quiet afternoon, as he was washing dishes there was borne to him from the shore the sound of Christian song. A casket was being carried through the village streets and the simple Cornish folk who followed were singing that noble hymn:

O God, our help in ages past,
Our hope for years to come,
Our shelter from the stormy blast,
And our eternal home.

Little did they think of their audience in the kitchen of the ship's yarder, but the song followed this wayward sailor land over the high seas until he had found the true "Shelter from the stormy blast."

A soul in which Christ lives scatters light and blessing everywhere—"as poor, yet making many rich."

Cured.

SAUL REJECTED BY THE LORD

(The Story)

The splendid military genius of Saul adds another victory to a brilliant list. The ancient enemies of Israel who disputed his first approach to Canaan are annihilated. Moses' victory at Rephidim has its complement in the long battle-line which reaches from Hebron to the Jordan. The hero returns. The Amalekite king in chains graces his triumph. Spoils and booty are in the train. Arriving at historic Gilgal, a monumental trophy is erected. Two hundred thousand victors chant the psalm: "The highest but 'strength of life' as well. As the very word indicates, courage is a matter of the heart (cour). If the heart is right with God, his pavilion is about such a one. The best courage comes from 'waiting upon the Lord.'"

Evansville, April 2.—The Lawrence College Glee club, under the direction of Carl J. Waterman of Lawrence, Kansas, and the management of Jules V. Houghtaling, has been making a decided hit in towns where the boys have appeared. The large audiences have been enthusiastic and appreciative. The hit of the evening was undoubtedly the burlesque act of up-to-date grand opera. The leading parts taken by Messrs. Green, McKee and R. E. church, was a huge success and truly appreciated. The company sent out, consisting of thirty-four members, traveling in their special train, and accompanied by a manager. Their trip this year is the longest ever taken, the club being absent from college almost a month.

Evansville is exceedingly fortunate to be included in the itinerary with such places as Milwaukee, Ripon and Rockford, at all of which they have been most warmly received. Evansville Personalities. Misses Lillian Spencer and Rhea Jennings of Brooklyn attended the concert given here last night. Mr. and Mrs. Luther Graham and daughter leave today for a brief visit in Albany at the Wallace Tilley home. Rockford for Benson spent yesterday in Orfordville.

Miss Olive Lundington of Rockford is visiting her aunt, Miss Lilla B. Lundington of this city. Mrs. John Tomlin and son, Glenn, visited Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Tomlin in Orfordville, Wednesday. Ray Hyne motored to Edgerton yesterday.

John Emmons of Orfordville motored here yesterday, visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Howard and other local friends. Mrs. Marjorie Wallace left Thursday for an over Easter visit with friends at Chicago.

Everett Van Patten of Madison is visiting his parents over Sunday. Paul Chase of the State University of Wisconsin, is the weekend guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chase. St. John's Episcopal church services for holy week. Good Friday. The three hours' service in commemoration of the passion of our Lord, beginning at 12 o'clock. Easter day—Sixty prayers and sermon at 8:30. Processional, "This Suffering One," Easter anthem, "Christ our Passover is Sacrificed for Us." Te Deum, Lawa and Cooke, Benedictus, Anon. At the Lamb's High Feast, Oratorio song, "Hosanna," Mrs. Stewart, Gloria Tibi, Humphrey, Recessional, "Hark, Ten Thousand Voices." Sunday evening prayer with sermon, 7:30 p. m. There will be a celebration of the holy communion on Easter Monday at 7:00 a. m. The Rev. Henry Willmann, rector of Trinity church, Janesville, will be the celebrant. Yet he will be most cordially welcome at these services.

Congregational Church. Special Easter music the morning at 10:30. Sunday school at 11:45. In the evening at 7 o'clock the choir will give an Easter concert with Mrs. Harley at the piano, Miss Lou Howard at the organ, and Miss Maude Combs with the violin, as follows: Processional. Scripture reading. Prayer. Anthem, "Awake Triumphant."

A splendid career was possible to Saul. He was every inch a king. His majestic form awed his enemies, gave courage to his adherents. He was modest, showed self-control, he undoubted courage. His ruin came from his lack of consecration to God. He could never bring his will into alignment with God's will. He never learned obedience. His life will ended in making him a hypocrite, a traitor to God, an insane foe to his fellows and to himself. . . . The rejection of Saul was not an arbitrary matter. It was just as necessary as the expulsion from the orchestra of the musician who will not observe the director's baton. Saul persisted in spoiling the harmonies of a divine symphony. He was repeated in unbroken and given new opportunities; but he was bent upon striking such notes as he pleased. . . . To each rational soul a kingdom is committed. It may seem a small affair in sight of man. Not so in sight of God. The moral qualities required are the same as those demanded of Saul. With our tiny kingdom each is ruled according to the divine ideal. That question now solving in all human hearts. The event is for real or vice eternal. Saul is a colossal wreck, but he is not the only one on the shore of time. Obedience—Intelligent, exact, and loyal—is indispensable. There is no substitute. The perfection with which we do something else is no mitigation of the offense. There is no scale of equivalents. The conscious deviation of a hair's breadth spells ruin. The fat of rams cannot take the place of obedience. . . . Saul's offense is really very common. Total surrender to God is the hardest lesson of a lifetime. Most of us are on the human plane when we deem ourselves saved. The too often gives the lie to the consecration hymn which we sing quite sturdily. . . . Some geese betrayed the Gauls in their night attack upon Rome. A cock gave the tip-off to Peter. Bleating sheep and lowing oxen mock Israel's king when he asserted that he had performed the Lord's commandment. The animal kingdom often takes the witness stand against the sinner.

Analysis And Key. Saul's Victory. Prizes and Paeans. Truce at War. Dead Fly in Ointment. Saul for Self more than God. Perpetuity of Dynasty Sought. Samuel Saul's Nemesis. AND PLEASANT FIELDS. e. v. Calls Halt to Triumph.

Prophet's Challenge. Victor's Evasion. Doom Pronounced. Paean Changes to Dead March. THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S DEVOTIONAL SERVICE. Psalm 27. April 4, 1915. Concerning Discouragements (Consecration Meeting) "I believe you are afraid!"—soldier on seeing the blanched face of the comrade at his side. "If you were half as much afraid as I am, you would have run long ago!" was the mere answer. Courage is not the absence of fear. It is the obedience in spite of fear. The highest type of moral courage is that which grounds itself in God—finding in him but "strength of life" as well. As the very word indicates, courage is a matter of the heart (cour). If the heart is right with God, his pavilion is about such a one. The best courage comes from "waiting upon the Lord."

He was repeated in unbroken and given new opportunities; but he was bent upon striking such notes as he pleased. . . . To each rational soul a kingdom is committed. It may seem a small affair in sight of man. Not so in sight of God. The moral qualities required are the same as those demanded of Saul. With our tiny kingdom each is ruled according to the divine ideal. That question now solving in all human hearts. The event is for real or vice eternal. Saul is a colossal wreck, but he is not the only one on the shore of time. Obedience—Intelligent, exact, and loyal—is indispensable. There is no substitute. The perfection with which we do something else is no mitigation of the offense. There is no scale of equivalents. The conscious deviation of a hair's breadth spells ruin. The fat of rams cannot take the place of obedience. . . . Saul's offense is really very common. Total surrender to God is the hardest lesson of a lifetime. Most of us are on the human plane when we deem ourselves saved. The too often gives the lie to the consecration hymn which we sing quite sturdily. . . . Some geese betrayed the Gauls in their night attack upon Rome. A cock gave the tip-off to Peter. Bleating sheep and lowing oxen mock Israel's king when he asserted that he had performed the Lord's commandment. The animal kingdom often takes the witness stand against the sinner.

H. A. Moehlenpach of Clinton Will Preside at Big Banquet at Milwaukee. Keep April the 15th. Invitations and announcements of the 38th annual convention of Wisconsin business men, held annually under the auspices of the State Young Men's Christian association, of which H. M. Whitehead of this city is president, have been issued. The convention this year will last but one day, April the 15th, and will be held in Milwaukee.

H. A. Moehlenpach of Clinton, a director on the state board, will act as toastmaster at the banquet which will be held at six o'clock on the evening of the big day. An address by George D. McGill, international secretary, will be the big number on the program. Reports will be given. Any man interested in the work is cordially invited to attend this meeting. The field is the men and boys of the state, and those interested in the welfare of the association can attend.

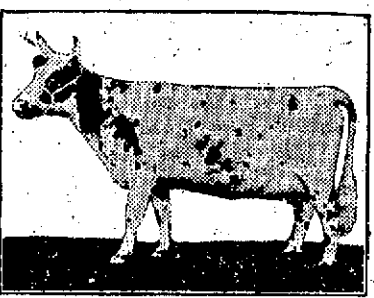

Clean wiping cloths, buttons and hooks off, will bring 3 1/2¢ per pound cash at the Gazette office.

DAIRY FACTS

BEST TEMPERATURE FOR COW

Hoard's Dairyman Expresses Opinion That About Fifty Degrees Fahrenheit Is Right.

In response to a query as to about the right temperature for a dairy barn Hoard's Dairyman makes the following reply: We are not prepared to say what is considered the right temperature to keep the barn for dairy cows. It is our opinion that it is not well to have the barn colder than 50 degrees Fahrenheit. In very severe weather the temperature in the Hoard's Dairyman barns falls to 50 degrees Fahrenheit. While the milk flow seems to be about the same under these conditions, yet the cattle seem to show signs of not being as comfortable as when the barn is at 60 degrees. It may be that if they were accustomed to a temperature of 50 degrees or lower they would do fully as well. It may be said that cattle under of ficial and semi-official test, where they are invariably fed a large amount of feed, may be kept at a much lower temperature than 50 degrees Fahrenheit and seem to appreciate it. It should be remembered, however, that the feeding at this period is far beyond the amount the animal can handle to the best advantage, and she would not be capable of eating so much year after year. In other words, she is full of fuel.

Cow Pays for Attention. A good cow, no matter what breed, is worth all the care and kindness the owner can give her, and all the good feed she can use. No doubt there are very many cows that would give a much better showing if they received the necessary attention.

PRACTICE OF CREAM GRADING

Better Material Is Secured for Creameries and Insures Better Product for the Consumer.

(By R. McCANN, State Dairy Inspector of Colorado.)

The old system of spoiling good cream with bad by mixing the two is a practice to be relegated to the past. Consumers, manufacturers and producers alike should demand and expect that progress or a lead be made in products and manufactures of their respective community and state.

While cream grading is a comparatively new measure in many of our bordering states, it has apparently proved beyond doubt its value in many respects, the foremost of which are: Securing a better material for creameries; placing an incentive and reward for the production of good cream by difference in price received for first-grade cream over that for second-grade, and insuring a better product for the consumer, thereby increasing consumption and demand for products manufactured.

CUT UP LONG CORN STALKS

Much Waste May Be Avoided and Cows Will Eat Them Up Clean—Bit of Grain Is Relished.

Don't try to make your cows eat long corn stalks. They will surely waste a lot of good feed. Cut the stalks and they will eat them all up clean. Let them lie in a box or even in the alleyway for a day or two after they have been cut and they will heat and soften up a good deal. If too dry a little water poured over the pile will help to moisten them up. A bit of grain sprinkled over each ration will make its licking good.

Bad-Acting Heifers. Heifers are not included, as very often they will be gentle as anyone desires, after the second calf. It may be, as some say, a bad cow is simply a heifer grown up, that has been ruined while being broken. However, if they persist in tricks after the second calf, best to let them go and try a new cow.

FEW MOMENTS! NO INDIGESTION OR SICK, DYSPEPTIC STOMACH—PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN.

DIGESTS ALL FOOD, ABSORBS GASES AND STOPS FERMENTATION AT ONCE.

Wonder what upset your stomach— which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take Pape's Diapepsin, and in five minutes you will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress. Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps the stomach regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

DEMURRAGE SECTION DECLARED INVALID

Judge Grimm Holds Law Requiring Cars to be Transported at Rate of 75 Miles Per Day Is Void.

In his opinion filed yesterday in the demurrage cases of the Chicago and Northwestern and Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul roads against the Rock County Sugar company, Judge Grimm holds that section 1737-10m, relating to demurrage charges and requiring in effect that cars shall be transported at the rate of 75 miles per day, is void. The facts in each of the cases were stipulated, removing the necessity of taking exhaustive testimony. Judge Grimm's decision carried with it a judgment for each of the plaintiffs, $324 for the Northwestern and $239 for the St. Paul company.

Judge Grimm's conclusion of law in the cases was: "That under its contract with the growers the defendant was the owner of the loads and could lawfully control the date of shipment, to suit at will, and that it is not liable for demurrage on cars transported contrary to its orders to the extent of the amounts fixed by the stipulation. "That the state law (Sec. 1737-10m) in effect requiring cars to be transported at the rate of not less than 75 miles per day, is void, and no allowance can be made for failure to comply therewith."

THE BOY FARMER

Or a Member of the Corn Club

By ASA PATRICK

Copyright, 1915, by American Press Association.

This method gave Sam the finest seed from the largest and most perfect plants, both of corn and cotton. He could have sold at high prices much more than he had to spare of either kind. One day, just after the seed had been selected and was stored away, Miles Fagan came over to buy.

"I want to buy some of that cotton and corn seed of yours," he said. "How much can you spare me and what'll they be worth?"

"I'm selling them at $2 per bushel for either kind," Sam told him, "and I have only six bushels of corn and twenty of cotton seed to sell."

"My, but that's a high price!" exclaimed Fagan. "Still, I reckon they're worth it and I'll take the lot."

"Can't let you have them all," said the boy farmer. "I've promised Bill Gooch half of them, so you can have three bushels of corn and ten of cotton seed."

"That ain't as many as I need, but I'll take 'em," said Mr. Fagan.

Sam's school chums gathered most of his cotton crop, for which he paid them at the rate of 60 cents per hundred pounds. Ten and sometimes twelve of them would come out early Saturday morning and pick until night, in which time no less than a bale would be gathered. When the last straggling locks of the patch had been gathered, Sam found that his crop had yielded one bale to the acre. The five bales he sold for $250 and stored away 150 bushels of seed for feed.

The four acre tract of corn yielded seventy bushels to the acre, or a total of 280 bushels, all of which Sam put in the barn with that from the one acre. He didn't intend to sell any of this crop, as he could make more by feeding it to hogs.

The crops were now about all gathered. There remained the peas and the pumpkins that had been sown among the corn and the turnips, which were not yet ready to be gathered.

Sam hauled out many loads of big golden pumpkins with the one horse wagon. There was not much market for pumpkins, but he managed to sell about 100 at 5 cents each, or a total of $5 worth. And still he had more pumpkins than he knew what to do with. He knew, however, that what the family did not use would be fine feed for the hogs and cows when the cold weather of winter came on. So he carefully stored them away.

With the black eyed pea crop it was the same. Sam thought that he had never seen so many peas in all his life. He sold $20 worth, gathered what would be needed at home, and then the vines still full, he turned in the hogs and cows for a week's feast.

According to agreement, Bill Gooch came over when the stock had cleared out most of the pea crop and set to work with a large plow turning under vines, stalks and all. The cotton stalks were large, and a great many of them, as well as some cornstalks, were left above ground. But when Sam sowed the ground with winter oats and rye and had Gooch follow him with a disk it cut the stalks to pieces and left the soil smooth and unbroken.

Soon after they finished sowing a gentle rain began falling, lasting for a day. It sank into the soft soil and seemed to touch the planted grain with magic. In a very short time the field from end to end was one long carpet of green.

The year was growing old, and the great bulk of the work was done. Sam now had more leisure than he had had at any time during the year. Of mornings there was sometimes a hint of frost in the air, but the days were yet hot and sultry. Sam's friends, Fred Martin, Joe Watson and Andrew White, had visited him several times that summer in addition to the days that they had worked. But he had something that he thought would make a pleasant surprise for the boys, so he invited his neighbor, Bob Fagan, and those three from town to visit him on Saturday. Sam's surprise was some large watermelons, the last of the season, that he had covered up with grass and kept fresh and sound. The melon crop had been gone for a long time, and this would be a treat worth giving on what would probably be their last visit this year. Even Bob Fagan would be as much surprised as any, for they never grew melons on the Fagan farm and knew nothing about keeping them until cold weather.

The boys came, and the day proved to be suitable for the occasion. It was a hot, sultry day and seemed to belong more to midsummer than to autumn. First the melons were carried to the creek near the swimming hole and dumped in a clear pool to float round and round and cool. Then the boys were off on a hunt for wild grapes and pecans. They found both. Winter grapes and fox grapes they found hanging in thick, purple clusters from vines that ran along branches and from tree to tree. To get them the boys generally had to do a lot of climbing, but they liked this, though they had to be careful about getting too far out on weak limbs.

The pecans' hulls were popping open, and dropping their fruit to the ground, so they had little to do except to pick them up or chuck the trees to hang more down. The only competitors they had were the squirrels and crows. The crows merely feasted, but the squirrels were busy in every tree, gathering their winter supply and storing them away in their homes in the tree hollows.

Autumn is a time of beautiful colors, and the nature lover, like Sam Powell, prizes it almost as much as spring. Sam gave his comrades their first lesson in woodcraft—how to see things. He pointed out to them the flashing colors of red and brown and green and gold. For the first time they really saw the sunnys dancing on the bill of the red birds and jay birds making red and blue streaks as they flew swiftly through the woods. He showed them how to sit very still and see the wild things that would come out and begin their work and play all around.

The hours passed swiftly, and before the boys realized it noon was long past. Being hungry and tired, they turned back toward the creek and the tree hollows.

"What I want to say," he began, smiling, "is that I am very proud that this country is in my district. When I tell you why, boys, you'll be proud also."

A stillness settled over the crowd, and the boys listened eagerly for the next words.

"What I refer to," continued Mr. Burns, "is the fact that some boy of this country, some boy sitting here in this room, has won the state prize—a trip to Washington. Think of that, boys. One of your club has not only won the first prize for the county, but he has beat every other boy in the state. I wonder if any of you know who the winner is?"

As he asked the question the agent allowed his eyes to wander about over the crowd of boys, as if he himself was trying to locate the lucky youth. The boys looked at each other and tried to guess the winner. But the agent left it to the committee to reveal the name.

They didn't have long to wait, however. Presently Mr. Burns sat down, and the chairman of the committee stood up to award the prizes.

"Sam Powell will please come forward," he said.

Sam could hardly realize that it was his name that had been called, but he rose and went forward. The chairman had him step up on the rostrum beside him, facing the assembly. The next words of the man caused the young farmer almost to faint.

"Sam Powell," he said, "I wish to inform you that as a competitor in the Boys' Corn Club you have won the first prize offered to the boy in this state who produced on one acre the largest amount of corn at the least cost. This prize consists of $100 in cash, to be used in paying the expenses of a trip to Washington."

"Furthermore, I wish to inform you that you have won the first prize offered to the boy in this county who produced on one acre the best all round crop of corn, quality, quantity and cost considered. This prize consists of one registered Jersey cow."

"For your achievement in farming the state also presents you with this certificate of honor. It is signed by the governor and stamped with the great seal of the commonwealth. To win this certificate is alone a distinction to be proud of."

Holding the certificate in his hand, Sam went back to his seat. It seemed almost too good to be true that he had won those first prizes. He was anxious to get out and go home to tell the news. How proud his mother and sister would be!

He didn't feel sure that he would win a prize. He thought that he might win one of the smaller county prizes, but, as for the first ones offered for the county and the state, of course he didn't have any chance to win.

If he could just win the gold watch offered by the governor or the trip to Washington or the $25 in gold or the Jersey cow he'd be satisfied. But, anyway, he said to himself, if he didn't win a single prize this year he would next.

CHAPTER VIII.

EVERY member of the Boys' Corn Club in the county was present at the meeting. There were many others also, including farmers, merchants and bankers. It was a jolly crowd that gathered together that morning. Every one had his joke and his laugh. The noise never ceased for a moment until the club was called to order and Mr. Burns stepped up on the rostrum to make a few remarks before the awarding of the prizes began.

"I want to say," he began, smiling, "is that I am very proud that this country is in my district. When I tell you why, boys, you'll be proud also."

A stillness settled over the crowd, and the boys listened eagerly for the next words.

Holding the certificate in his hand, Sam went back to his seat. It seemed almost too good to be true that he had won those first prizes. He was anxious to get out and go home to tell the news. How proud his mother and sister would be!

They lay in the shade and talked a long time after they had disposed of the watermelons. One or two slept, and Sam and the others amused themselves by throwing rocks at the trunk of a tree. Suddenly some one said: "Let's go swimming. I'm going to be first in!" Then the race began. Every boy was up in a second, peeling off his clothes faster than he had ever done before in his life.

Three were so close together that it was hard to tell which was first. They gave a whoop and, running to the bank, sprang into the air. They came down head first, for the water was deep, and there was no danger of striking anything. Chug, chug, chug, they went, one after the other. The water was as warm as an August day, and the boys had fine sport. They dived after pebbles, had contests of swimming under water, floating, treading or swimming on their backs.

Somewhat that afternoon seemed too short to the boys. They had been swimming a long time when Joe Watson spoke up suddenly:

"My, but look how low the sun's getting! We've got to be hiking, boys!"

"Well," said Fred Martin as they were dressing on the grassy bank, "we've had our last melon for this year."

"And our last swim, too," added Andrew White.

"Yes, that's so," said Bob Fagan, "but they were both daisies for last ones."

"No need to grieve, boys," Sam explained. "You forget that we'll soon have snow and Christmas."

"That's the truth," they exclaimed in chorus. "They'll be here before we know it!"

This new subject afforded conversation for the boys till they came to the place of parting.

Sam himself as he walked slowly homeward kept thinking of Christmas. The Christmas feeling was getting in his blood, and that's a delightful feeling to have.

The young farmer on arriving home immediately set about doing the evening chores. He felt vigorous and fresh and happy. Nothing seemed lacking. Nevertheless when he had finished the chores and gone indoors he found a letter that added to his feelings of pleasure. The letter was from Mr. Burns, the agricultural agent, requesting him to be present the following Saturday at a meeting of the Boys' Corn Club, when the prizes for the state and county would be awarded.

The following Saturday morning Sam Powell was up early and away to town, to be present at the meeting of the

At a meeting of the First Congregational Church of Christ, Edgerton, Wisconsin, held Sunday, March 28th, 1915, the following resolutions were passed:

"Whereas, This service marks the close of a pastorate distinguished for pleasant and elevating relations; and, Whereas, This congregation wishes to record its sense of appreciation of the present pastorate.

"Be it resolved, That the congregation take this opportunity of recording its sincere regret at the departure of its pastor, the Reverend Philip E. Gregory, after a ministry, which while short, has been significant for its harmony and helpfulness, as well as for conspicuous ability and success in the betterment of the church, the community and the Kingdom of God."

"Be it further resolved, That the church records its unqualified approval of the stand taken at all times by Reverend Gregory on matters affecting the public and private welfare of its members as well as of the community at large, and its admiration for his unflinching support and loyalty to the rights of all and to the encouragement and development of every noble sentiment and enterprise."

"Be it further resolved, That Mr. Gregory's efforts for the spiritual uplifting of the church and its material prosperity call forth the good wishes of his people in the larger sphere of service to which he has been called, and their prayers that his leadership at Little Falls, Minnesota, may be productive of an ever increasing amount of good, towards those people committed to his spiritual care."

Ways and Means of Improving Wisconsin Tobacco

Testing the Seed.

By James Johnson, College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin.

The importance of testing the germination of tobacco seed is becoming more evident to growers everywhere. Tobacco harvested from the field ordinarily will vary from 50 to 100 per cent in germinating strength. Much of the trouble experienced in growing good tobacco plants for transplanting comes from too thick sowing of the seed.

The only way in which to accurately determine the right thickness to sow the seed is by knowing the germinating percentage.

The germinating tests for tobacco seed can easily be made by any grower who is willing to devote a few minutes of time to this work.

For this purpose a blotting pad and two pie tins may be used. Place the blotter in the bottom of the pie tin. Then saturate the blotter with water, draining off the excess water from the tin. Scatter from 100 to 200 seeds thinly over the surface of the blotter. Then invert the second tin over the first to prevent the rapid evaporation of moisture from the blotter. Leave the tin in an ordinary room temperature, and examine daily to see that the blotter does not dry out, adding water if needed.

In from five to eight days the seed should be sprouted. First, count the number of seeds sprouted. Then count those which have failed to sprout, giving the total number of seeds on the blotter. Divide the number of seeds germinated by the total number of seeds on the blotter, and multiply the result by 100. This will give the percentage of germination.

An ounce of seed germinating about 77 per cent should be made to cover about 3 to 4 rods of a bed six feet in width. If, however, the soil is steamed it should not be sowed more than two thirds as thick; that is, about one ounce to from 4 to 6 rods. Seed germinating below 77 per cent should, of course, be sowed thicker in proportion, and that above that percentage thinner.

and guidance. "Be it further resolved, That as indicative of the congregation's appreciation of Mr. Gregory's sterling worth and the respect in which he is held, a copy of these resolutions be engrossed in the public records of the church, that copies be sent to the local newspapers, as well as to Mr. Gregory himself, for whose health, success and welfare this congregation will ever pray."

Signed on behalf of the Congregational church of Edgerton, "MRS. E. C. HOPKINS."

The above resolutions were submitted to the church at Edgerton by Principal F. O. Holt, were moved by Andrew McIntosh, seconded by Henry Abbott and unanimously adopted.

YOUNG SOLDIER SERVES IN BOTH THE AUSTRIAN AND THE GERMAN ARMIES.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Vienna, April 2.—George Leitner, a young Austrian from Zell am See, in Tyrol, has had the perhaps unique experience of serving during this war in both the German and Austrian armies, first as a German soldier and then as an Austrian.

When the war broke out Leitner was in Germany. He enlisted, and was sent to the west front, where he eventually received the Iron Cross.

As Austria began calling out her various classes of troops Leitner's name finally was reached, and a notification was sent him, which was received by his father in his home town.

The latter, who chanced to know his son's regiment and company in the German army, sent him word that he was called on for service in Austria. He was mustered out of the German ranks and in due time mustered in the Austrian, where he now is.

MISUSE OF PROBATION LAWS IS EXPERIENCED IN THE CHICAGO COURTS.

Chicago, April 2.—Crime-sworn Chicago is today finding a new source of danger—criminals who should be behind the bars, but who through misapplication of the probation law, find themselves free. This misuse of the rule which permits first offenders only to have a second chance comes about in several ways, in many instances, lawyers misrepresent the status of their clients, a fiercer accepts a probation of the prisoner is a first timer.

man on probation mingles back into the life of the city, perhaps changes some of his habits, and him home, but continues his career of crime.

Again, the city has only twenty probation officers to deal with hundreds of cases. Half their time must be in court. During the remainder of their day, they are supposed to visit probationers, for the law says they must make this call at least once a month.

Five thousand men and women each year go practically free forever under the probation system. Hence the city now sees an answer to the epidemic of "stickups," murders, burglaries and many other crimes with which it is afflicted.

And the city literally takes itself home to bed via the middle of the road, lest thugs waylay, assault and rob, perhaps murder.

The Melons Were Carried to the Creek Near the Swimming Hole.

pool where the melons were floating in the sparkling water. In a short time they were there, and, carrying melons to a grassy place in the shade of some trees, they cut them in halves and exposed the juicy red hearts. In a jiffy each boy had a big dripping slice and was eating it between grunts of satisfaction.

They lay in the shade and talked a long time after they had disposed of the watermelons. One or two slept, and Sam and the others amused themselves by throwing rocks at the trunk of a tree. Suddenly some one said:

"Let's go swimming. I'm going to be first in!" Then the race began. Every boy was up in a second, peeling off his clothes faster than he had ever done before in his life.

Three were so close together that it was hard to tell which was first. They gave a whoop and, running to the bank, sprang into the air. They came down head first, for the water was deep, and there was no danger of striking anything. Chug, chug, chug, they went, one after the other. The water was as warm as an August day, and the boys had fine sport. They dived after pebbles, had contests of swimming under water, floating, treading or swimming on their backs.

Somewhat that afternoon seemed too short to the boys. They had been swimming a long time when Joe Watson spoke up suddenly:

"My, but look how low the sun's getting! We've got to be hiking, boys!"

"Well," said Fred Martin as they were dressing on the grassy bank, "we've had our last melon for this year."

"And our last swim, too," added Andrew White.

"Yes, that's so," said Bob Fagan, "but they were both daisies for last ones."

"No need to grieve, boys," Sam explained. "You forget that we'll soon have snow and Christmas."

"That's the truth," they exclaimed in chorus. "They'll be here before we know it!"

This new subject afforded conversation for the boys till they came to the place of parting.

Sam himself as he walked slowly homeward kept thinking of Christmas. The Christmas feeling was getting in his blood, and that's a delightful feeling to have.

The young farmer on arriving home immediately set about doing the evening chores. He felt vigorous and fresh and happy. Nothing seemed lacking. Nevertheless when he had finished the chores and gone indoors he found a letter that added to his feelings of pleasure. The letter was from Mr. Burns, the agricultural agent, requesting him to be present the following Saturday at a meeting of the Boys' Corn Club, when the prizes for the state and county would be awarded.

The following Saturday morning Sam Powell was up early and away to town, to be present at the meeting of the

SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Color, Gloss and Thickness.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful "dark shade" of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides its beautiful darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

After The Dance Or Evening Parties

Following an evening of pleasure or dancing come here where the service is of the best and the cuisine is unexcelled. In the preparation of our famous CHOP SUEY we use nothing but the finest quality of ingredients.

The Darling of the Dance Wears Caldwell's Dance Slippers

Such a stunning display of them here. Kinds that you can "glide and dip" in grace, fully—because the slippers of today play a prominent part in the new dancing. We feature the Patent La Valliere buckle, the Patent 3 Strap, Dull Kid La Valliere and the black satin with high and low heels. For men we are introducing an English style oxford with white rubber soles. Then too are the patent and dull pumps.
